CANDIA WOMAN BADLY SCALDED

Mrs. Mary Smith Overturns
Kettle of Boiling Water
On Her.

Mrs. Mary B. Smith of East Candia, aged 82 years, was frightfully scalded on Tuesday by the overturning of a kettle of hot water upon her which she was carrying from the stove to the sink.

The aged woman had just lifted the steaming kettle and had turned toward the sink when in some manner she tripped and fell headlong to the floor. In so doing, the kettle struck her and the contents were spilled over her arms and shoulders.

Medical assistance was summoned and the aged woman was made as comfortable as possible. It is feared that her advanced years will be much to her disadvantage in withstanding the severe shock which she has sustained in addition to the deep and ugly burns.

DONDERO-CAREY.

Though the congratulations are somewhat belated, they are nevertheless sincere when extended by the friends of Charles H. Dondero and the former Miss Mary E. Carey, who were joined in marriage on July 4. The bride was attended by Miss Alice Leach and Dr. John B. Leahy acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Dondero are residing on Lincoln avenue.

ACTION BEGUN IN NEW HAVEN CASE

President Wilson Directs Attorney
General to Institute Dissolution Proceedings

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The long continued effort to untangle the New Haven railroad without litigation came to an end tonight when President Wilson in a letter to Attorney General McKeen directed the institution of a Sherman law suit to dissolve the system and ordered that the "criminal aspects of the case" be laid before a Federal grand jury.

This president's approval of the course mapped out by the department of justice means that civil suit will be filed against the New Haven in the United States court of New York at once. The attorney general also immediately will direct United States District Attorney Marshall at New York to summon a grand jury and the task of laying evidence before that body on which to ask for criminal indictments against officers and directors of the New Haven under the Sherman management will be begun as soon as possible.

T. W. Gregory, the special assistant in charge of the New Haven case, will have full charge of the civil suit and before the grand jury will be aided by F. M. Swacker, an expert from the interstate commerce commission who has helped him in the preparation of the evidence. How many indictments will be sought was not altogether tonight, but it was plainly indicated in correspondence made public that the attorney general expects to ask for a bill against Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven.

The most significant fact in connection with the proceeding was a statement that Mr. McKeen gave out several months ago when the interstate commerce commission began its New Haven inquiry. In that statement he warned the commission to consider whether immunity might be given certain men if made to testify as to their actions as directors of the road.

The names he mentioned were: Chas. S. Mellen, William Rockefeller, Geo.

BANDIT ROBINSON COMMITTS SUICIDE

Slayer of Inspector Norton Takes Life

Cuts Arteries With Steel Arch
Support Taken From Shoe

(Special to The Herald)

Boston, July 22.—Lawrence Robinson, the western yegoman who shot and killed Inspector Thomas J. Norton in a Boston cafe, committed suicide at the Charles street jail this morning. His taking of his own life was as sensational as his killing of Norton. He extracted the steel arch support from his shoe and with this he cut the arteries in his leg and in his wrist, as well as in his foot. The jury to try him was empaneled yesterday and his trial was to start today.

The killing of Norton was not the only murder charged to Robinson. He killed a man at Grand Rapids while engaged in robbing a jewelry store.

The fact that Robinson has taken his own life proved one of the biggest sensations that Boston has known in police circles. A double guard had been placed over him since his arrest, and every effort against self-destruction had been made by them.

Investigation in the Robinson suicide brought out the fact that the piece of steel had been removed from any of the shoes in the cell and that assistance must have come from the outside. Robinson wrote letters on the 18th to his mother, his counsel and even the sheriff saying "Goodbye," and to his mother that he would never be placed on trial.

LIGHTNING STRIKES RHODE ISLAND MILL

Providence, R. I., July 21.—During a heavy electric storm which swept over the western and northern portions of this city this afternoon, the lightning entered the Wayss and Freytag Manufacturing Co. in Central Falls, causing $3,000 damage. Running in on the wires, it set fire to six large and three small transformers containing 2,000 gallons of transit oil.

The whole plant burst into flames and a near panic started among the workmen. Firemen were called and fireproof walls of the power house kept it confined to the one building. The lightning struck several houses throughout the state.

HAVERHILL BRIDGE AGAIN TAKES FIRE

Haverhill, Mass., July 21.—Cleveland bridge was slightly damaged by fire today. Street railway traffic over the span may be interrupted for a couple of days until an inspection is made by the county engineer to determine whether the bridge has been made unsafe.

The same bridge burned a year ago and no trolley cars were allowed across for several months.

by Will of James C. Hooe of Washington

In the York County Probate court at Biddeford Tuesday afternoon the will of James C. Hooe of Washington, who died at his country home in Virginia in 1910 was filed for probate.

It provided for the conveyance of all the property in Green Acre, at Biddeford, to Miss Sarah J. Farmer, founder of the Green Acre School of Religions, during her life.

The Union Trust Company of Washington, D. C., is named as executor of the will, and the property is to be held in trust by them for Miss Farmer.

at Home of His Grandmother

Alonzo Hubley, aged 25 years, committed suicide shortly before 11 o'clock this forenoon at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Annie Hubley, of Number 41-2 Hancock street. Hubley was a shoemaker by trade and only recently returned to this city from Boston.

Just before breakfast Mrs. Hubley found him sitting in the yard and she noticed that he was not in the best of spirits. She questioned him but he told her he was not feeling well and sat down to the table and drank a cup of tea. He left the kitchen a few minutes after and went into a shed in the rear of the house where he ended his life by drinking carbolic acid. His grandmother was attracted by the noise of his heavy breathing and groaning. She tried to get him to speak but the deadly

RELEASES CLAIM ON BIG ESTATE

Miss Harris Withdraws Action Against Executors of Henry M. Baker of Bow.

Concord, July 22.—Miss Magnolia V. H. Harris of Washington, D. C., who presented a claim against the estate of the late Hon. Henry M. Baker of Bow for $200,000 in property which she alleged Mr. Baker was to settle upon her when their marriage took place has filed with the executors, Rufus M. Baker of this city and Sherman E. Burroughs of Manchester, a release of all her claims and the proceeding is now at an end.

Hon. Henry M. Baker died very suddenly in May, 1912, June 2, 1913. Miss Harris' attorney, Hon. Henry W. Blair, filed in the probate office for Merrimack county, copies of a bill in equity to be filed in the courts of the District of Columbia and to be by Miss Harris against the estate.

In the bill Miss Harris alleged that she was under 30 years old and that she assumed various duties under Mr. Baker in 1912 under promise of marriage, which was prevented by the sudden death of Mr. Baker.

She further alleged that owing to Mr. Baker's death certain ante-nuptial agreements had not been carried out and that she had been left destitute and without means of support. She alleged that the homestead in Bow and other valuable gifts had been promised.

The executors of the estate would not recognize the claim, and so far as they were able to learn the suit was never brought in Washington. In this city the papers were of no effect for the reason that they should have been filed with the supreme court. It was recently stated that the suit had been dropped in Washington and that it was to be taken to New Hampshire courts.

Later Miss Harris forwarded to the executors a full and true release of all her claims against the estate and this is now in their possession.

It is stated that the reason for the discontinuance of the proceeding was the difficulty in establishing the validity of Miss Harris' claim through the absence of documentary proof.

GAME CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN

The Y. M. C. A. and the Consolidation Coal Company started a game in the Sunset League schedule on Tuesday evening, but it was called at the end of the second inning on account of rain, with the score 3 to 0 in favor of the Y. M. C. A.

There was a good crowd present and the Y. M. C. A. opened with three runs in the first inning and in the second were retired in order, a sharp double play by Brown, Peterson and Hemlock assisting. The coal men could do nothing with McPheters delivery and in the second inning he struck out the first three men up.

A sharp shower rained over the grounds and it was raining heavy while the second inning was played. Umpire Sheppard called the game on account of the rain after waiting ten minutes to see if it would let up.

LIGHTHOUSES.

New Ones Compared With the Ancient—Great Elevation Is Not Always Point of Vantage.

The modern age of lighthouses was ushered in with the building of the third Eddystone by John Smeaton in the year 1759. This lighthouse was important for several reasons. In form and construction it was superior to the lighthouses of the time, and the illuminant, though nothing better than 2-5 pound tallow candles, aggregating 672 candle power, afforded by the steadiness of the flame the possibility of future improvement through the use of devices to direct and concentrate the beams.

As in the organic world, there are creatures of a day, while others, like men, enjoy a reasonable longevity, so it is in the world of architectural constructions, and lighthouses belong to the long-lived class. For one of these 100 years is no great matter, and thus it happens that many a modern lighthouse has seen revolutionizing humankind come and go, and has itself profited by the latest lamp surgery performed with ever increasing delicacy within its lantern, whereby its ancient body has taken on new dignity and capability for its beneficent task.

Such a lighthouse may be seen at Sandy Hook, for although the first of these structures to be erected in America was placed at the entrance of Boston Harbor as early as 1716, the New Jersey lighthouse is the oldest now in existence upon our coasts. At one time the illuminating material con-but the crowd had disappeared with the first rain.

There was considerable dissatisfaction among the players at the condition of the grounds. Apparently no care is taken at all of the diamond, and it does not look as though it had been raked and rolled for months. They rightly claim that if the city gets one-third of the gross receipts from the Sunset League games, it should at least keep the grounds in fair condition. A few loads of gravel and rolling would make considerable difference.

This makes three or four games either the or postponed, which must be played off. This evening the P. A. C. play the Marley Bolton Company and as the Marley's had won their games from the Athletics it will be a sharp contest.

sisted of 35 hard oil candles. At a later period oil burners were installed, while during successive periods kerosene was used in old-type lamp lamps, and electricity, then in the experimental stage, was adopted. After this there was a recurrence to the oil lamp, and at the present time incandescent vapor is employed.

Here it must be admitted that lighthouses, when serving a double purpose, have not always figured as temples to the gods, for by the British who built this lighthouse and put it in commission, in the year 1764, it was intended to serve also as a military prison.

This old lighthouse had its secret underground passage, the entrance to which was barred by an iron door located in a nearby hillside. Then, too, in this year of reconstruction, the holes that were made in the sides of the tower by cannon shots from British men-of-war were renovated, so if tradition must connect lighthouses and temples, the one at Sandy Hook was certainly related to Minerva, the god of war, though in the past hundred years it has lighted many a British ship on peaceful errands into New York harbor. The mention of war suggests a continuance of the parallel already instituted between life-saving light and death-dealing implements. The problem of the kind of light required for a lighthouse in a given situation, and its range—or atmospheric penetration, let us say—under the conditions demanded, is an important one. As every one knows, the 15-inch guns mounted at Sandy Hook would be altogether useless for field work, while New York, if left to the protection of field pieces and machine guns, would be defenseless. Similarly a 60,000-candle power electric light, throwing a beam 10 nautical miles, like that in the Navesink lighthouse, New Jersey, would be useless to mark the changing channel of a river, while a movable post light fills the purpose for which it was intended, but could not change places with the Navesink.

With the growing complexity and advance toward perfection of lighthouse systems, lighthouse' zones are established at varying distances from land, the character of the light, whether double or single, colored or white, fixed, flashing or intermittent, being determined by the requirements of its position and the use to which it is put as a signal. Into the scene of pharology with its complicated technique concerning lighthouse construction and the distribution, installation and management of signals, these brief descriptions cannot enter.

While great elevation would seem a leading requirement if a coast light is to perform effective service, it is a positive disadvantage in certain localities and at certain seasons of the year, when, as in St. Georges Channel, foggy weather is the rule, for the fog clouds envelop the light and render it quite useless for the guidance of vessels below. The "Fog Light" or "Occasional Light"—at South Stack, on the Island of Anglesey, Eng., was constructed to meet these conditions. An inclined plane was excavated in the rock, and upon this a tramway was laid.

The light, being contained in a carriage, which in clear weather was left at the summit of the incline, can be lowered to a position from which its beams may be directed over the sea at the lowest possible level. The forward part of this lantern contains an optic apparatus of three reflectors, which, being placed on a revolving plane having a reciprocal motion through the air to be illuminated, gives the characteristic of the main light. The motion is produced by means of a powerful spring.

Steeles Ledge lighthouse, located in Penobscot Bay, Me., contains a powerful acetylene light, having a 600 lumen candle power intensity and an optical range in clear weather of 12½ nautical miles. The installation comprises six A-50 accumulators, with a flasher arranged to show single flashes, and a one-foot burner with a fourth-order lens. The length of time during which lights of this class operate without attention is dependent upon the number of tanks installed and the nature of the signal demanded, since short light periods with long dark intervals require less gas than the long light periods. The Steeles Ledge light will burn for more than one year without attention.

The following years saw the introduction of electricity into a number of lighthouses. Most important and powerful of all lights was, and still is, this country at any rate in the Navesink which in 1898, was provided with a 64 second white flash electric light, the flash having a duration of .08 sec. Its optical lens has a focal distance of 700 ft. like the new light installed at South Stack in 1904.

Electricity is now being used in the so-called "unattended lights." Lights of this description will, upon the completion of the Panama canal, guide ships on their way through Gatun Lake. In passing through the latter the canal makes eight turns, some of these being at a sharp angle. The range lights are of reinforced concrete, two placed in pairs that one towers above the other at a distance back of the lower one of several hundred feet.

The pilot will direct his course by keeping these two lights in line, turning when the pair on the opposite shore appear in view. These range towers, rising to a height of above 60 feet, are sometimes placed in the midst of the dense tropical jungle that fringes the shores. In a few of these compressed acetylene, which will burn six months without attention, is the illuminant, but the great number of the light-houses are on a general electric light circuit. As Abbot states in his recent work on "Panama," the whole canal will be lighted with buoys, beacons, lighthouses and light posts.—Edison Monthly.

to President Husted made it clear that the department takes the position that the New Haven directors did not live up to their agreement of last March for a peaceful dissolution in their refusal to sell their Boston and Maine stock under conditions imposed by Massachusetts and puts the blame for what may follow on the heads of those directors. The case was discussed today at the cabinet meeting and the department's course approved.

The president's letter to the attorney general follows:

"I have your letter today, enclosing a copy of your letter of July 9, to J. H. Husted, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, which, together, disclose the failure of the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company to comply with the terms of settlement proposed by them and accepted by us in the matter of their railroad holdings. Their final decision in this matter causes me the deepest surprise and regret. Their failure, upon so slight a pretext, to carry out an agreement deliberately and solemnly entered into and which was manifestly in the common interest, is to me inexplicable and entirely without justification.

"You have indeed been kind to keep me informed of every step the department took in this matter and the action of the department has throughout met with entire approval. It was just, reasonable and efficient. It should have resulted in avoiding what must now be done.

"In the circumstances, the course you propose is the only one the government can pursue. I therefore request and direct, seeking the dissolution of the unlawful monopoly of transportation facilities in New England now sought to be maintained by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and that the criminal aspects of the case be laid before a grand jury.

"With much regard,
Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Woodrow Wilson."

NEW CASTLE

This week will see an exodus of the city slayers in town. Judging from the large numbers that arrived last week at Hotel Wentworth we realize that the dispersment has come and that society has scattered itself in all directions. Many are hiding themselves to our little summer Eden. Well, the island town where nature still holds sway is now adorable. The hotels are wide open, the furnished cottages tempting and everything points to a hot and glorious season.

Preparations for the annual summer festival, August 4 and 5, go on with much enthusiasm and if the advance sale may be taken as a guide it will be fully as prosperous as its predecessors. A most fascinating entertainment will be presented each evening.

Misses Dorothy and Ruth Neel, who have been the guests of Mr. Aleck Amazeen have returned to their home in Mattapan.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman after a three weeks' sojourn with relatives, have returned to their home in Bangor.

Miss May Dixon of Boston is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fern, after a short visit with Miss Nellie A. Card and family, have returned to their home in Newburyport.

Miss Dorothy Day of Westfield, N. J., is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. George Browne at Fellows cottage.

Miss Dolly Greene of Boston is passing her vacation at the Curlys and renewing acquaintances in the island town.

Miss Frances Kerling of Boston is the guest of Nathaniel Yeaton and family.

Miss Marion Hibbard of Boston is a guest of Miss Myra Neel at the Amazeen cottage.

Mrs. Lydia Grogan has returned from a several months sojourn with her children in Boston.

It is very gratifying to learn that there is reported to be a slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. William Robinson.

Miss Edna Wagstaff of Westfield, N. J., is registered at the Sea Breeze.

Mrs. Henry Morelle, after a short visit with friends has returned to her home in Portsmouth.

Mrs. Jacob Marston after a ten days' sojourn with Mr. Albert Barker and family, has returned to her home in Danvers.

BUMPER CROPS AND OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

Washington, July 21.—In a review of agricultural and business conditions sent to its members last night, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States emphasized the bright prospects for bumper crops this year and reported a general feeling of optimism over what the future has in store, in spite of present depression in manufacturing, mining, lumber and railroad centers. The chamber's conclusions, prepared at the headquarters here, were based upon data gathered from all parts of the country.

"It is rather remarkable," said the review, "that in most sections, even in manufacturing sections, where business conditions are at their worst, there is much optimism of the immediate future, and a general feeling that with normal crops there will be very great improvement in all business matters during the remainder of this year."

"Manufacturing is exceedingly quiet throughout the country. Mining, nearly all kinds, suffers from strikes and lack of demand. Lumber interests are feeling the dearth of building, especially in small towns and in the country. The railroads, because of decreasing revenues and increasing expenses, have cut down their forces as far as possible and laid off many trains, in the interest of economy."

"These conditions have, naturally, bred much apprehension, conservatism and pessimism in districts where these industries are the principal sources of revenue to the inhabitants. This is particularly true in the middle and New England states, and in some of the large manufacturing centers of the west and south."

"Against these unfavorable conditions, the situation of agriculture is most encouraging despite drought conditions that have prevailed more or less extensively in the spring and summer in widespread sections. While extended rains in the latter part of June and early in July have put a new phase upon affairs and supply bills, however, have been effected here and there by the Democrats, only to be overcome by the passage of deficiency bills or by enlarged totals of the principal budgets. If the Republican filibuster in the Senate should kill eventually the rivers and harbors bill, with its $65,000,000 of appropriations and authorizations, the total of the prospective budget will be reduced, but the record for the entire Congress will not benefit in the end, owing to the insistence upon a public buildings "park barrel" next winter. The rivers and harbors "park barrel" would doubtless again be passed by the House next winter, and the Senate now has a House bill proposing an outlay of $25,000,000 for good roads.

The postoffice budget for the year is $26,000,000 more than that of last year. The army bill shows a $7,000,000 increase the pension budget $11,000,000, the agricultural $1,000,000, and others and harbors $12,000,000.

GOES TO CABINET

New Haven—Boston & Maine Situation Not Settled at Conference

Washington, July 21.—President Hiram of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad issued the following statement last evening relative to the conference with the Department of Justice over the Boston & Maine situation:

"The directors find themselves unable to recede from the position which they have taken and assume that the Attorney General will therefore decide to file his bill in order to determine the questions between the company and the Government. But it is hoped that after the bill is filed it will be possible to make such arrangements as will reduce the points of difference to a minimum and secure a prompt settlement of whatever remains at issue. The conference was marked by straightforwardness and friendliness on both sides."

"The Department made this statement: 'The Attorney General will take this whole subject up with the President at the cabinet meeting tomorrow. Until that time he will not have any public statement to make.'"

TO INVESTIGATE THE COAL ROAD EMBARGOES

Action Ordered by Interstate Commerce Commission—All Railroads Made Respondents.

Washington, July 21.—Investigation of embargoes placed by coal roads alleged to result in discrimination against shippers was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. All railroads were made respondents to the proceeding which will begin with hearings at places to be later designated.

DEATH OF FAMOUS RACEHORSE

New York, July 21.—News has reached here from Paris that Rock Sand the famous stallion bred in England for which August Belmont paid $125,000 in 1906 died there yesterday. He was fourteen years old. Two years ago Mr. Belmont sold Rock Sand to a syndicate of Frenchmen and Americans for $150,000.

Rock Sand was a brown horse by Sainfoin out of Roquebrun and was foaled in 1900. In 1903 he won for his owner Sir J. Miller the Derby the St. Leger and the Two Thousand Guineas the famous "Triple Crown" of the English turf captured by less than ten horses. At the time of his purchase by Mr. Belmont the price was the next highest ever paid by an American owner for a thoroughbred. The record price was paid a year ago July 30 1913 when J. D. Joel the South African millionaire sportsman paid $250,000 for Prince Palatine.

NEW SYSTEM FOR RAILROADS

Freight and Passenger Accounts After Next June Must Be Kept Separately Washington, July 21.—Railroads after June 30 1915 will be compelled to keep their accounts to show separately the costs of freight and passenger service according to an order today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The information will be used not only for rate making but to keep the commission more closely informed as how the railroads actually conduct their business.

ORGANIZED BASEBALL MEET WITH LEGAL DEFEAT

Buffalo, N. Y., July 21.—Organized baseball suffered a legal defeat today when Justice Herbert P. Bassell granted the motion to vacate the injunction secured by the Chicago-American League Baseball Club restraining Hal Chase from playing with the Buffalo Federal League Club.

The lack of mutuality in the so-called 10-day clause of the contract under which Chase was playing with the Chicago team formed the basis of the decision, vacating the injunction.

That organized baseball is a violation of the Sherman Antitrust law was stated by Justice Bassell, who said he could not agree that "The business of baseball for profit is interstate trade or commerce, and therefore subject to the provisions of the Sherman act."

The court held, however, that it was monopoly of the baseball business in contravention of the common law. Chase was served with injunction papers June 25, while he was playing with the Buffalo team at Federal Park. He has been on the bench since, in his affidavit, upon which the motion to vacate the injunction was based, Chase alleged that he gave the Chicago club 10 days' notice of his intention to leave, at the expiration of which time he signed the Buffalo contract.

Regarding the 10-day clause, Justice Bassell said:

"The plaintiff can terminate the contract at any time on 10 days' notice. The defendant is bound to many obligations under these remarkable provisions of the National agreement. The player's contract, binds him and only for the playing season of six months from April 14 to Oct. 14, but also for another season, if the plaintiff chooses to exercise its option, and if it insists upon the requirement of an option clause in each succeeding contract the defendant can be held for a term of years."

His only alternative is to abandon his vocation. The absolute lack of mutuality, both of obligation and of remedy, in this contract, would prevent a court of equity from making it the basis of equitable relief by injunction or otherwise. The negative covenant under such circumstances, is with out a consideration to support it and is unenforceable by injunction.

Justice Bassell declared organized baseball an complete monopoly of the baseball business for profit as any monopoly can be made.

"It is contravention of the common law," he said, "in that it invades the right to contract as a property right, and in that it is a combination to restrain and control the exercise of a profession or calling."

The injunction was vacated with $10 costs to the defendant.

COOPERS GET EIGHT HOUR DAY AND SATURDAY AFTERNOONS

The Coopers Union on Tuesday afternoon signed an agreement with the local brewing companies for a new wage schedule to go into effect at once and for a years time.

By the agreement the coopers will work eight hours a day and receive $4.00 per day and have Saturday afternoon off during June, July and August.

Their old schedule was 9 hours a day at $4.00 and no Saturday holidays, but they were paid for holidays which is now eliminated.

The schedule affects all of the local breweries and the Manchester breweries and the agreement was signed by International President Andrew C. Hughes, who has been here settling the difficulties between the coopers and the breweries. Mr. Hughes is a local boy who has been a prominent figure in the labor world for some time

LINE OPENED BETWEEN VERA CRUZ AND MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, July 21.—Official announcement is made that direct traffic between Mexico City and Vera Cruz will be reestablished Wednesday. Gangs of workmen are now engaged in rapidly rebuilding the track. The cabinet ministers assembled Monday for a conference with President Carranza concerning the situation caused by the proximity of Emiliano Zapata's forces to the capital. President Carranza said after the meeting that he had no fear of Zapata, as the Government has sufficient troops to check the further movement of rebel bands.

The three attacks made by rebel forces on Zacimilco yesterday were repulsed with a loss of 70 men killed in the attacking forces. The Federals had only five men wounded.

WHAT MAKES MILK AND BUTTER YELLOW

That the rich yellow color demanded by the public in dairy products is primarily due to the character of the cow's feed is demonstrated by recent experiments carried on by the department in cooperation with the Missouri State Experiment Station. For some years dairy experts have been studying this question. Their conclusion is that although to some extent a breed characteristic the intensity of this yellow color may within certain limits be increased or diminished at will by changing the animal's rations.

Chemical tests show that the yellow pigment in milk consists of several well-known pigments found in green plants. Of these the principal one in carotin so called because it constitutes a large part of the coloring matter of carrots. The other yellow pigments in the milk are known as xanthophylls. These are found in a number of plants including grass but are especially abundant in yellow autumn leaves.

These pigments pass directly from the feed into the milk. This explains the well known fact that fresh green grass and carrots increase the yellowness of butter the only standard by which the average person judges its richness. On the other hand a large proportion of these pigments is deposited in the body fat and elsewhere in the cow. When the ration is changed to one containing fewer carotin and xanthophyll constituents this hoarded store is gradually drawn upon and in consequence the yellowness of the milk does not diminish as rapidly as it otherwise would. This yellowness increases however the instant the necessary plant pigments are restored to the ration.

Green grass is probably richer in carotin than any other dairy feed. Cows fed on it will therefore produce the highest colored butter. Green corn in which xanthophylls constitute the chief pigment will also produce a highly colored product. On the other hand a ration of bleached clover hay and yellow corn is practically devoid of yellow pigments and the milk from cows fed upon it will gradually lose its color. It is of course indisputably true that the breed does influence the color of the milk fat; but very the ration and there will be a corresponding variation in the color of the milk fat in each breed.

In cows of the Jersey and Guernsey breeds the body fat is frequently of such a deep yellow color that some butchers and consumers look with disfavor upon beef from these breeds. For this prejudice there is absolutely no justification. The yellowness of the fat springs from the same causes as the yellowness of the milk fat and there is no reason for objecting to one cause to the very thing that is prized in the other.

BARDINE LABOR TROUBLES IN BRITANNY

Consul Walter H. Schultz Nantes writes that thousands of fishermen have struck work along the coast and women employed in the canneries in many instances have struck in sympathy with the fishermen. In the south the women struck after vainly urging their own grievances upon the owners. They demanded a wage increase from 20 centimes to 25 centimes ($0.0360-$0.482) per hour.

The difficulties between the fishermen and canners are of a varied nature but the resolution to strike was based largely upon the ultimatum of the canners who recently announced that they would hereafter purchase sardines only by weight. In northern Brittany every canning factory belonging to the National Syndicate is closed. Steps already have been taken in several instances to transfer plants to the south where canners are plentiful and their own fishing vessels and with such success as to promise general adoption by the canning interests.

A HAIL STORM ALONG THE BEACHES

There was a sharp squall passed over this city Tuesday afternoon. There was a heavy fall of rain and considerable rain fell but very little electrical disturbance.

Shortly after six o'clock another squall rolled over from the northwest but the rain fall was not very heavy. Along the beaches there was a heavy fall of hail at Wallis. Squalls of what kind of pavement will be adopted, is not to be decided until the bids are in.

FAVOR THE GRANITE BLOCK PAVEMENT

The bids for the paving of Deer Bridge and upper Edgemoor streets are soon to be asked for by the Board of Public Works, and the question of what kind of pavement will be adopted, is not to be decided until the bids are in. It is understood that the board are divided. The Mayor and Mr. Hudson are said to be in favor of granite block pavement while Mr. Husky and Capt. Barrett favor the granite block pavement, especially for the heavy travelled streets like Deer and Bridge.

POLICE COURT

There was a busy session of police court before Judge Torrey on Tuesday afternoon. Earl Griffin, charged with highway robbery in robbing Leo Butler of $1.00 the night before the Fourth, was identified by young Butler and he was held in $400 for the October term of court.

Charles McVey charged with carrying concealed weapons, was held to the county farm for five months. James Driscoll, a drunk was sent to the county farm for two months and a Polander was also given a like sentence.

Clicquot Club GINGER ALE

Ginger Up with Ginger Ale!

Outdoors, at home, or in the office, a drink of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale snaps you up, tickles your palate with its bursting bubbles and drives away discomfort by removing heat and thirst.

No saccharin in Clicquot, but pure cane sugar. The ginger taste comes from real Jamaica ginger root.

In a ten cent bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale you get enough of the finest quality ginger ale to fill two of the five cent bottles that contain something called ginger ale. We can't put Clicquot Club Quality into five cent bottles. The cost of handling and washing and filling the bottles runs too high and we believe in clean bottles. You don't pay any more for Clicquot, but you do get ginger ale.

Stand by the Police.

A revolver battle in Chicago last week between a squad of detectives and a squad of policemen, both in plain clothes, resulted in the death of one officer and the wounding of another, and two bystanders were also wounded.

This was a serious affair and it leads at least one newspaper to protest against what it terms "reckless use of firearms by policemen." It takes the ground that officers are liable to shoot without justification and that there should be very little use of the revolver by those whose duty it is to guard the public peace and safety.

There may be cases in which policemen make reckless use of their revolvers, but the truth is that these are very few. The habit of regarding policemen as brutal men courting excuses for violence is altogether too firmly fixed in American cities. The average officer is the last man in the world to resort to unnecessary force in the performance of his duty, and the charge that policemen as a class are reckless in the use of the pistol is altogether too broad and sweeping.

The real trouble in this Chicago case was plain clothes, rather than revolvers in the possession of the officers. One squad was having trouble with a group of hoodlums when the other squad approached and neither squad knew that the other was composed of officers. The trouble grew so serious that one of the officers drew his revolver, and one of the other officers, believing that a hoodlum was preparing to shoot, opened fire and the damage was done before the circumstances were understood. It will be readily seen that plain clothes were chiefly responsible for the tragedy. If the officers had been in uniform or displayed suitable badges it would not have occurred.

There are cases in which it is necessary for officers to do their work in plain clothes, but they should always be prepared to show their authority at an instant's notice. But that officers should carry revolvers and use them when necessary no man interested in the public well-being will deny.

The number of officers killed and injured by thugs is greater than the number of thugs killed or injured by officers, and so long as conditions in the big cities are what they are at present it is little less than criminal to insinuate that armed officers are hardly less dangerous than the brutal and dangerous elements against which they have to contend.

Governor Blewett of South Carolina, who has pardoned or paroled 1200 convicts in the last three years, proposes to have the state penitentiary emptied by August 1, and he has no apology to offer. He says he works by the Golden Rule and whoever objects to that is not a Christian. But in practicing the "Golden Rule" he seems to overlook the public, which has suffered at the hands of the horde of criminals he has turned loose. His record is not only unenviable, but damnable.

A number of western railroads have been heavily fined for violating the law providing for the proper care of livestock in transit, as all humane people will be glad to know. "A merciful man is merciful to his beast," says the Good Book, and this applies to railroads as well as to individuals. Dumb animals have some rights, and it is a righteous law that protects them.

The army worm and the grasshopper are working terrible ravages in some parts of New York State, and it behooves the authorities and all good citizens to pull together for the extinction of the destructive pests. This is clearly a case in which a stitch in time is liable to save nine, and not a moment should be lost.

A London paper thinks the proper solution of the Mexican question is for the United States to "occupy and administer Mexico." But it looks as if the question would be solved in a much more sensible, humane and inexpensive way.

With reference to certain legislation the president has virtually said to Congress, "I am going to fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer." And it looks now very much as if it would take all summer.

The department of agriculture informed us that there are 2,026,000,000 wild birds in the country east of the Mississippi, exclusive of English sparrows. Of course, no one will question the correctness of the count.

Storms have done heavy damage in some places of late, but on the whole the rains have done far more good than harm, as the appearance of the country plainly indicates.

Shamrock IV is coming, and will soon be going in what is expected to be one of the greatest races in the history of yachting.

There has been a good deal of puzzling over the proper pronunciation of Huerta, but "Where to" has the lead just at present.

Mexican Prisoners In Texas May Soon Be Given Their Liberty.

As the result of Huerta's resignation and the apparently approaching complete triumph of the Constitutionalists in Mexico the United States government may soon release the federal soldiers held in custody at Fort Bliss, Tex. There are over 5,000 Mexicans under Uncle Sam's care, and it is costing a big sum to feed them. The picture shows some of the wretched Mexicans in the military prison under guard. These prisoners were some of the ring leaders in the attempt to escape from the control of the United States troops.

MUST MARK TRAPS PROPERLY

Fishermen Cannot Put Initials on Traps and Buoys.

The commissioner of sea and shore fisheries recently made a trip along the coast of Maine and as a result he wants the law regarding the marking of lobster traps and buoys enforced to the letter and is keeping close watch for any violation. Under the law all traps in which lobsters are kept and all lobster cars while in the water, shall have the name of the owner or owners thereof on the top of the car, where it may be plainly seen in letters no less than three-fourths of an inch in length, plainly carved or branded thereon, and all traps, nets or other devices for the catching of lobsters, shall have while in the water, the owner's name carved or branded in like manner on all the buoys attached to said traps or other devices, under a penalty of ten dollars for each trap or device not so marked; and if sufficient proof to establish the ownership of such cars or traps cannot be readily obtained they may be declared forfeited.

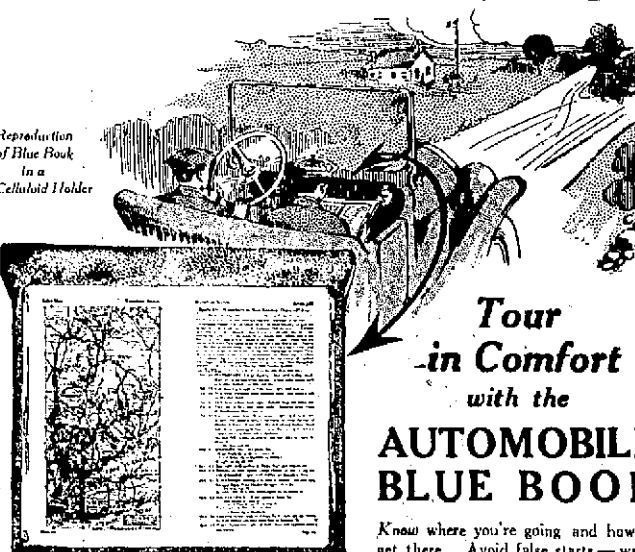

Upon a recent cruise on the coast, the commissioner discovered the fact that many lobster buoys were being used with only the initials marked thereon, other instances where only the first two initials and the surname were marked and other cases where only the surname was used.

Lobster cars and buoys so marked are confusing for the warden to tell who the rightful owner may be, and to eliminate these conditions the commissioner announces that all lobster cars, buoys and other devices must have the owner's full name thereon. For illustration, if a man's name is George P. Jones, his lobster cars, buoys and other devices must be so marked, G. P. Jones and the abbreviation for George will not be sufficient.

The commissioner fully realizes the fact that in many cases it means hard and extra work for the lobster fishermen at this time of the year to mark their lobster gear, still he feels that the law must be complied with and is willing to give the lobster fishermen a reasonable length of time for them to attend to this matter.

The commissioner also announces that he has put the state boat, Sea Gull, into commission to inspect this work, together with other duties on the entire coast.

GIRL SWIMS HUDSON AT ITS WIDEST POINT.

Fourteen-year-old Dorothy Bauer Makes Journey in Four Hours.

After being in the water four hours Dorothy Bauer, fourteen years old, of Hastings, climbed on the rocks at Phillips manor, having completed a six mile swim from Nyack to Tarrytown, N. Y.

Miss Bauer lives in Riverview manor. She has been swimming since a child and has swum the Hudson at Hastings. That was so easy that Frank McKernan's invitation that she swim with him across Tappan Zee at Tarrytown, where the river is the widest, was accepted. When Miss Bauer, accompanied by McKernan and Crawford Brown, arrived at the Tarrytown Yacht club old seamen shook their heads and said the girl would never make it, for she would have rough seas and wind all the way. Miss Bauer laughed and said she was going to try anyway, and in tow of a launch she was taken to Nyack.

When the other side was reached Miss Bauer took off her sweater, and, wearing black tights and a green cap to keep her hair tight, she dived overboard from the Tappan Zee club. When McKernan and Brown said they were ready she waved her hand to the crowd and struck out for Tarrytown. She used a slow double overhand stroke. She was trailed by James Morgan and Kenneth Steer in a rowboat.

Just after the start a heavy squall struck the river and the waves dashed high, but Miss Bauer took them easily and fought her way. When a mile out McKernan was nearly exhausted and had to be taken out. Brown stuck it out for another half mile, and then he withdrew. Miss Bauer laughed and said in reply to questions that she was not cold or tired. Ferryboats came close by and gave three whistles in salute, and Miss Bauer waved her hand.

A strong flood tide carried Miss Bauer up the river opposite William Rockefeller's home. "It seems to me as if I am going backward," she called. The men in the boats encouraged her, but they could see she was getting tired. When a mile off shore and two miles above Tarrytown Miss Bauer asked McKernan to go home to her mother that she was safe and she was going to finish. Then she struck out stronger than ever, and in less than an hour she had made the last mile of the journey.

MESSANGER BOY A LINGUIST.

Speaks Ten Tongues and Wants to Build Railroads in Native Smyrna.

Messenger 1524 of the Western Union Telegraph company in New York makes an average of $10 a week—$7 in salary and $3 in tips. He is "boy" to the men and women he meets. But messenger 1524 is not "boy" to himself, and he intends some day to be more than "boy" to others. His name is Alexander J. Toentil, and he is seventeen years old.

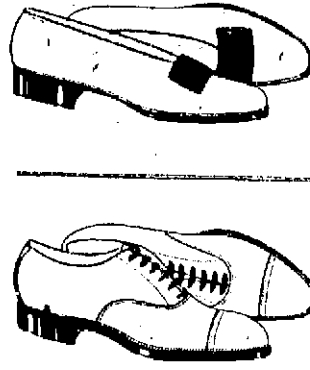

He met sailors and tourists from all over the world in Smyrna, where his father lived, and before many years had passed he had won recognition as a guide. Naturally quick witted, he picked up the languages the travelers brought to Smyrna, so that he soon learned to talk intelligently to almost every one he met.

At some future time, Alexander says, after he has saved something as a bank interpreter, he intends to study electrical and mechanical engineering, with a view to returning to Smyrna to build railroads, subways and elevated lines. His mother and her two young children still live in Smyrna.

Women should not prepare food when their hands are dirty, and the family cat should be banished from the kitchen.

WILL HONOR CAPT. JOHN SMITH

Society of Colonial Wars Will Hold Annual Court and Dedicate Tablet on July 29

The Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New Hampshire will hold its Annual Court on Star Island, Isles of Shoals, July 29, when they will dedicate a memorial tablet of Captain John Smith, this year being the 300th anniversary of his landing on these islands (April, 1614). Repairs have been made on the marble monument erected by Rev. Daniel Austin several years ago, but which was overthrown in the great storm, Nov. 26, 1888. The bronze tablet will be placed on the restored monument. This is the only monument in the world erected to the memory of this celebrated author and explorer.

On the same day the monument erected as a memorial of Rev. John Tuck, and not far from the Captain Smith monument, on the same island, will be dedicated by the New Hampshire Historical Society. So the two ceremonies, one following the other, will make that day a memorable one for Star Island. The Rev. John Tuck was minister of the church on that island for many years, and this monument, about 40 feet tall, is the gift of his descendant, Hon. Edward Tuck of Paris, France, the gentleman who has given a million dollars to Dartmouth college for various purposes; his latest donation is to build a new road from the bridge to the village, via Webster valley.

The Society of Colonial Wars, beside providing for this memorial tablet on the Smith monument has just published a bound volume which is dedicated to the departed members of the society, and was prepared by the committee composed of John C. Thorne of Concord, Dr. Irving A. Watson of Concord and Justin Harvey Smith of Boston. The matters of chief interest are the biographical sketches of deceased members, with their portraits; they are Ex-Governor Hiram A. Tuttle, Edson C. Eastman, Henry B. Cabot, James Minor and Joseph B. Walker of Concord, Capt. George A. Gordon of Somerville, Mass., Gen. Henry M. Baker of Bow, Adolphus S. Hubbard of San Francisco, and Chas. other illustrations, among which are the great seal and colonial emblem of the society, a bronze tablet at Fort Constitution, at New Castle, in commemoration of the attack on Fort William and Mary, December 14 and 15, 1774, which was dedicated June 17, 1903, and another bronze tablet, dedicated August 20, 1901, at Charlestown on the Connecticut river; it is placed on the site of the old "Number Four" fort of the French and Indian wars. The fact was built in 1743.

An illustration is shown of a broken tablet which was replaced with the original inscription by the Society in 1906, at Point of Graves, Portsmouth. The inscription thereon is as follows: "Here lyeth the body of Lieut. Col. William Vaughan, originator and participant of the expedition which captured Louisbourg, 1745."

The Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New Hampshire was incorporated Sept. 28, 1894, at Concord, which city is the place in which the business of this corporation is carried on. The objects for which it was incorporated are to perpetuate the names and memory of deeds of those brave and courageous men who in military, naval or civil service, by their acts or counsel assisted in the establishment and continuance of the American colonies from the settlement of Jamestown, Va., in 1607, to the battle of Lexington in April 1775, to collect and secure for preservation the manuscripts, rolls, records and documents relating to that period of Colonial history; to inspire among the members and their descendants the fraternal and patriotic spirit of their forefathers, and to inculcate in the community respect and reverence for the acts and principles of those indomitable men which made the freedom and unity of our country a possibility.

The two ceremonies on July 29 will undoubtedly be witnessed by a large gathering of the societies and friends of the members. Any one can attend who wishes to do so.

NO STRIKE AMONG BASEBALL PLAYERS

Disagreement Settled By Purchase of Kraft By Newark.

New York, July 21. There will be no strike of baseball players in the two major leagues. The Kraft case, basis for a strike order issued yesterday by the Baseball Players' Fraternity, was settled today by the Newark Internationals agreeing to buy Nashville's interest in Kraft.

Announcement in this effect was made this afternoon by Charles H. Ebbetts, owner of the Brooklyn Nationals and a large stockholder in the Newark International League Club.

At the time of Mr. Ebbetts' announcement the American League managers were in session, having been called together by Fred Johnson to determine upon a course of action in case the players in the two major leagues should obey the strike order. Mr. Ebbetts announced that Nashville had accepted the purchase of Kraft by Newark, and that Kraft would report to the Newark team at Providence tomorrow. Kraft has been under suspension for more than five weeks, ever since his refusal to report to the Nashville Club.

Ebbetts Says He Did It

In settlement of all claims on Kraft the Nashville Club is to receive $2500 Mr. Ebbetts announced.

"I made this arrangement without either request or instructions from either the American or National League," Mr. Ebbetts said, "I acted entirely upon my own responsibility. I have not been in communication with Mack and Shibe there."

The Other Girl

A Case of Unnecessary Jealousy

By R. A. BEALL.

To all their friends there seemed to be something essentially incongruous in the idea of their marriage. Friends, of course, as is well known, have the right to decide these things.

Grace Orlington was a New England girl of an old Boston family, who knew her Emerson by heart. It was even reported that she knew what Robert Browning meant when he wrote:

Seteas and Seteas and Seteas.

Jim Garrison had been born and reared on a Kentucky plantation, and he had obtained his education in that school which not only believes but vows that a gentleman's education is complete when he has been taught "to ride to shoot and to speak the truth."

Yet their marriage had turned out a happy one, for with all Jim's ignorance of books he was a gentleman, every inch of the stalwart length of him. He did not a bit of overbearing, though at times when his clever and learned wife let him slide out of the conversation, as he expressed it, and allowed by her manner that she knew it was over his head and that she excused him in sympathetic kindness.

The truth was that Jim would have been quite a bit better for it if he had possessed more of a share of that of which most men have too much—conceit.

For Jim didn't have a bit, and he used to rub his handsome head ruefully and with very genuine sympathy at the harmless thought that he was not good enough for his brilliant beauty of a wife and that she must feel some degree of shame for him when she was surrounded by the wise and learned people who called on them continually.

When they had been married a little more than a year a telegram came for Jim while he was absent in Kentucky looking over some of his land. Mrs. Garrison hesitated before she opened the yellow envelope, for she was not a woman who believed in letting her curiosity get the better of her. At last she did, and she found that it was a telegram from her brother, who was in the hospital, and that she should open the telegram to see if it was important enough to forward to Jim. Surely every one will forgive that. Women ought to be curious. It is part of their charm. Think of what the world would be without women's delicious curiosity!

The message was short. But few of the words were they were sufficient to cause something very much like her little world, tumbling disconcertingly down around the pretty ears of Mrs. Garrison. The telegram was dated from a village on Long Island and said:

The girl is dying. Come at once.

It was signed Jack Farrington. Grace recognized this name as that of one of her husband's friends or whom she had often heard him speak, but whom she had never met.

Grace was not a naturally jealous woman; in fact, nothing more than to say that she was not more jealous than is any good, true, warm souled woman. She tried to remain unselfish; but, try as she would, she could find but one interpretation for the message.

Her faith in Jim was too absolute to believe that "the girl" referred to could be her rival since their marriage. She never gave place to her mind for one moment to any idea that her Jim was capable of the shameful, disgusting treachery such a surmise would presuppose.

But she could not help but see that this girl had some claim on Jim and the thought of such a claim on the man who she loved so passionately was sufficient to drive her nearly frantic.

She perceived that the sender of the telegram had taken it for granted that Jim would not hesitate to "come at once." And then she recollected with a keen sense that gave her new pain now that Jim always had spoken shyly and hesitatingly about Farrington and had evaded all her attempts to induce him to invite this friend of his early days to their home.

Her feeling was one of total desolation. She mourned at the thought there could be anywhere in the world a woman with such a claim upon her Jim that he must go to her deathbed.

Mrs. Garrison realized now and all at once how deeply and helplessly she loved her handsome husband and how empty all her world of knowledge and art would seem to her if that love were destroyed.

At last, however, she began to think of the unknown girl who lay dying. With a mighty effort she put aside her own grief and telegraphed to her husband:

Mr. Jim Garrison, Phenix Hotel, Lexington, Ky.

Come home immediately. A matter of life and death. GRACE.

She could not bear to telegraph to him that "the girl" was dying. To refer to her in such a way was repugnant to every instinct, and she was in total ignorance of the girl's name.

Before noon she received the expected reply. It read:

Leave at noon. Arrive tomorrow noon. Grace Garrison. Having forced herself to mention her own emotions and her own wounded love and agonized pride, she did not the woman to pick from among the millions, complete and deep, however her feet might bleed on the weary way.

She telegraphed to Farrington that Jim would reach home at noon of the next day and would come down to Long Island immediately, and meantime determined to expedite his trip in every manner. Whoever this woman was to Jim, Grace resolved, that Jim must reach her bedside before death closed her eyes if she could make it possible.

The railroad time tables showed her that connections could not be made until very late in the evening, and she decided that she must be hurried down in her automobile.

It was a swift machine that had been bought especially for her use by her mother. Jim had steadfastly refused to learn to drive it. But Grace decided that it would not do to have the chauffeur drive Jim out, such an effort, for fear of gossip among the servants. She came to the hasty decision that she would drive the machine herself.

It was a very worried and excited mind who ran to her at the gate of the railroad station. "Tell me what it means, Grace," cried he.

Grace Garrison had freed the machine, but she was a woman. Her face grew stern and cold. She replied that a crowded station was hardly the place for such confidential and whispered conversation. He was in the automobile. Then, when they were whizzing on their way to Long Island, she looked deadly at him and without a word handed to him the telegram from Farrington.

Jim read it silently. His face denoted some distress, but it denoted more bewilderment.

"An awfully sorry the girl is dying," he said. "He sort of breaks the die. But the die is cast. I wish I had been left to peace till I had finished business in Kentucky. It was just closing a very profitable little transaction."

Grace looked at him in shocked amazement. Jim started at her and opened his mouth to say something, but nothing came out. He was so dumbfounded that he took away to hide his face, which she could not repress try as she would. She did not trust herself to speak except once or twice to ask the direction from Jim. The last time she fancied that she heard him chuckle, but dismissed the idea as a morbid fancy.

Farrington met them with a radiant smile and a strong cheerfulness, which was explained when he said hurriedly to Jim that the girl was much better. Then he asked curiously if they would not like to see her.

Jim replied in the affirmative with out a moment's hesitation, but Grace held back. Then Jim chuckled. It was an unmistakable, and not out of the blue.

Deviated, wondering, Grace followed the two men as Farrington led the way to the stable.

A rather feebly looking man, white-haired when she saw him and made a weak effort to get upon his feet.

On the way back Jim said with a happy smile: "You'll have to read up on one subject, anyway, darling. Anybody who knows anything at all about horses knows the girl. She is the most famous trotting mare in the United States, and she belongs to the firm of your truly, Garrison & Farrington. I'm glad she is better, but, sweetheart, even if she had died I would have considered her well paid for by the knowledge I've won through your absolute understanding about that telegram. Am I very stupid, darling? I think that you love me, even though I don't know much of literature and art?"

And Grace Garrison gave him a reply that convinced him that he was not stupid.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT

Eczema. Probably the most common of all the diseases of the skin is eczema. It is a very distressing and rebellious disease to treat, and it shows an obstinate tendency to relapse. It may run an acute course and last only a few weeks, or become chronic and last for years or even a lifetime. It attacks persons of all ages and conditions and can invade every other skin disease that is known. Among the causes for chronic eczema in older persons, and easily ranks first, many persons suffer from gout or rheumatism without having eczema. But when eczema does appear after middle life the possibility that it has its origin in gout must always be reckoned with. Eczema of the nervous type, sometimes follows a sudden shock, or it may be the result of prolonged anxiety or overwork. Probably eczema is never brought on by local irritation alone, but it is important to avoid all such irritations, since it is not always easy to tell whether or not a person has a predisposition to the disease. Eczema is almost always worse in winter, for the sudden changes in temperature act as mechanical irritants to the skin. Washing too always makes it worse, and sometimes it is necessary to use oil instead of soap and water in cleaning the face and hands. The treatment of the disease is both constitutional and local, and each case must be treated experimentally, for there is no specific for the disease.

BERNHARDT AND ROSTAND.

Actress and Author Play the Affair and Gaston Roles.

A pretty story comes from France of a contest in compliments between Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and Edmond Rostand, the poet in which the actress and Gaston must be put to shame. Mme. Bernhardt telegraphed to a Paris newspaper that she had entered suit against Rostand because a power of a cinematograph performance of his play "L'Aiglon" had been stuck up right opposite her Paris theater and would hurt her business. Mme. Sarah was most put out by the use of the title "L'Aiglon," which she claims belongs to her so far as concerns the stage.

The brilliant author of "L'Aiglon" seems to have been distressed at the anger which had been aroused against him in the person of the "divine Sarah," and he telegraphed her:

22. Know nothing about the case, but I would rather cut my hand off than engage in a lawyer against Mme. Bernhardt. No, I cannot force you to manage myself against her. Whenever she wishes to fight, and I grant her all the profits, nothing from those of my work. I kiss her hand, gracious as a fly.

This plume from the poet evidently touched Mme. Bernhardt deeply, as it is stated that she promptly wired to the Paris press declaring her purpose to refuse to accept Rostand's moving picture profits, which are estimated at $40,000.

This is an interesting and signal instance of a soft answer turning away wrath.—Columbia Record.

FRANCE MAY TAX DUELS.

One of the New Deputies Has a Bill to Abolish Duels.

One of the newly elected Parisian deputies says he intends to propose in the French chamber the imposition of a tax on duels. His argument will be that duels are a form of advertisement and as such are liable to taxation as posters and prospectuses. He suggests that duels shall be divided into three classes—third, second and first, in ascending order of taxable magnitude. For a third class duel with the ordinary four seconds, a couple of general practitioners and a scratch in the forehead, the tax will be 50 francs. The process-verbal, or official account of the duel, must be written on paper stamped with a six-decime stamp.

For a second class duel, giving a right to decorated seconds—that is, seconds with orders in their buttonholes—hospital doctors and descriptive reporters, the tax will be 100 francs. There will be an additional charge of 20 francs per camera and 10 francs per cinematograph apparatus.

Those who desire a first class duel must be prepared to pay 2,000 francs—£200 to the tax. But for that they are entitled to have a jury, a jury of honor, a famous swordman as director of combat, and a reconciliation on the field of honor to the accompaniment of a brass band or stringed orchestra. The sparkling deputy estimates that such a tax, highly imposed and exacted, will bring over £1,000,000 a year to the exchequer.—London Globe.

Shot Dead by a Corpse.

On the road between Ayr and Widdie, the body of a young Swiss, aged twenty, who had committed suicide by shooting himself through the head, was found by peasants, who at once informed the police, as it is prohibited by the Swiss law in such cases to touch a corpse. A gendarme named Boller arrived on the scene and found the young man still holding the revolver with his lifeless finger on the trigger. Hardly had the gendarme touched the hand of the corpse to remove the revolver when a shot was heard, and Boller fell mortally injured. He was found to have been shot through the abdomen and died in the hospital a few hours later. He was the father of several children.—London Standard.

Alfonso's Forebodings.

The Countess de Cisternas, born at Brooklyn, is a prima donna of great beauty and of marvellous talent. She recently sang at a concert given by the king and queen at Madrid. At the close of the evening Alfonso XIII. complimented in English the delightful musician. "I confess to you," said the king, "that it has been the dream of my life to visit the United States. The rumor of this voyage has spread, but my government has interdicted this pleasure. I shall never see America except as an exile, and that certainly is a disappointment that I do not desire."—Columbia Record.

He Was the Oldest Aeronaut.

M. Wilfrid de Fonville, who has just died, was the oldest aeronaut in the world. Two of his ascents have been famous. In 1858 he established a record by remaining two whole days in the air between Paris and Compiegne. In 1889, in company with Gaston Tissandier, he made another record of a different kind by covering a distance of ninety kilometers in the space of thirty-five minutes. Born on July 26, 1825, he was approaching his eighty-ninth birthday.—Westminster Gazette.

Out of Date Anyway.

A correspondent writes us to know if we can give the origin of the old poem about the little child shyly clinging to its mother's skirt. We cannot, but it is terribly out of date anyway, for the present mother is so shy on skirt that any child would have trouble in getting hold of enough to cling to.—Pittsburgh Express.

OKLAHOMA WANTS TEXAS GO.

ASTORIA, ORE., July 21.—Proceedings asking that the Texas company, an oil pipe line and purchasing corporation and the Producers' Oil company and Central Petroleum company, producers of crude petroleum, be ousted from Oklahoma were instituted in district court here yesterday. The petition charges the Texas company as the parent corporation and the producing companies as subsidiaries violate the state anti-trust laws in their alleged combination. Counsel for the Texas company contested the jurisdiction of the district court. Ten days were allowed for filing briefs.

The state's petition asks that the license to do business in Oklahoma of the accused companies be cancelled, their property in the state forfeited and fines aggregating $400,000 be imposed.

SALESMAN FINED SIX DOLLARS FOR TIPPING A NEGRO.

Jackson, Miss., July 21.—A. N. Stacker, a traveling salesman, was fined yesterday $6 for tipping a negro hotel porter ten cents. He is said to be the first person to be arrested under the state anti-tipping statute, now two years old.

The negro also was fined a similar amount for accepting the tip. Stacker's fine later was remitted.

FEDERAL AID FOR GOOD ROADS

Washington, July 21.—The Senate Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads, late yesterday, ordered a favorable report on the Good Roads bill submitted by Senator Bryan as a substitute for the Shackleford bill which had passed the House. The bill is designed to provide Federal aid to good roads and to permit the states to utilize the credit of the United States in raising road construction funds.

The bill would provide that the Federal Government issue 50-year 3 percent bonds to the amount of $500,000,000 in lots of $100,000,000 each for five years. States could participate in the use of the funds by issuing 4 percent bonds, which, when deposited in the Federal Treasury, would be exchanged for cash. The percent difference in interest between the Federal and state bonds would be held in a sinking fund with which to aid the states in retiring the bonds.

Under the terms of the bill there would be created a United States Highway Commission to have an advisory voice in the expenditure of the highway fund in the several states. The plan worked out in the bill was suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury.

LITERARY NOTES

The Smartest

The leading feature of "The Smartest" for August is a very spirited novelette by W. L. George, with the intriguing title "The Twenty-Three Days of Naximov." This is the first work of fiction that Mr. George has published since his much praised recent work, "The Making of an Englishman," though it more nearly resembles in its style and interest qualities the authors earlier book, "A Bed of Roses," on which his greatest reputation was made. The story centers about an American traveler and his romance with a young Russian girl whom he meets at an European resort, and who baffles his Yankee impetuosity with the strange moods and fancies of her subtle Slavonic temperament. Other contributors to this issue include Henry C. Rowland, Freeman Thelen, George Jean Nathan, Henry Mencken, Hildegarde Hawthorne, Richard Le Gallienne, Joyce Kilmer, Louis Untermeyer, Dorn Bryne, Ludwig Lewisohn and Grace Fallow Norton.

The August Woman's Home Companion

In the August Woman's Home Companion appear photographs of 17 babies who, out of 100,000 examined at the Better Babies contests were the only ones marked 100 by the physicians in charge. All of these children were examined and graded according to the Woman's Home Companion standard score card adopted for use in all Better Babies contests.

Other interesting special contributions to the August number are: "Good Times That Cost Next to Nothing," being accounts of happy vacations spent by resourceful persons who are willing to pass their ideas on to others; "Queen Mary of England," an intimate personal account of Great Britain's sovereign family; "The Lived-in Garden," a practical, suggestive article about gardens contributed by Frank A. Waugh, professor of landscape gardening at the Massachusetts College of Agriculture; "Homemade Professors' Cooks," contributed by readers; "Every Girl Should Know the Right Way to Stand, Sleep and Walk," by William J. Cromie; "Such a Pretty Girl" by Katharine Ferguson; and "A Britany Summer Fair and Festival."

Fiction and special art features are contributed by Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, Fannie Heaslip Lee, Margaret Innes Shipp, Margarita Spalding Perry, Mary Heaton Vorse, Henry Hunt, Charles C. Curran, and Maud Tousey Fangel. The regular Fashion, Cooking, Housekeeping and Young People's departments are filled with splendid suggestions peculiarly valuable in summer.

Popular Mechanics Magazine for August

Strong appeal to the imagination is made by the cover design of the August Popular Mechanics Magazine. It shows, outstretched in space, the gigantic hand and forearm of the figure of Mercury which will occupy the center of a monumental group typifying the art and science of the new Grand Central station in New York City. Perched upon the arm, which stands out coldly against the blue of the sky, is the little figure of a workman wielding his chisel to shape the powerful hand.

Among the 282 articles and 340 illustrations appearing in the August magazine are many of special interest. Dr. A. F. Zahm, secretary of the Langley Aerodynamic Laboratory of the Smithsonian Institution, discusses the proposed transatlantic flight to be undertaken by Lieut. John Cyril Porte, R. N., retired, Lieutenant of the British Navy, and backed by Mr. Rodman Wanamaker. Doctor Zahm describes the machine which will be used and brings out many interesting and important details.

There are numerous other articles, only a few of which may be mentioned. A new harvester which cuts, threshes and sacks the grain at once is described; there are some good pictures of the junior auto race on the Pacific coast; and the method employed by one railroad in recognizing employees' loyalty is explained.

The Shop Notes department maintains its usual high standard, but the smaller Mechanics department shows marked improvement both in subject matter and illustration. Two features of special interest are "The Mile-a-Minute Camera" and "The Boy Surveyor."

TIED SENATORS DODGE WORK

By hastening committee action on the anti-trust bills the Democratic majority in the Senate narrowly averted the crisis that threatens the Administration legislative programme. Efforts to expedite consideration of the river and harbor appropriation bill while the Senate is waiting for the revised House anti-trust measures were blocked by filibustering tactics on the part of a handful of Republican senators. Frequent demands for a quorum were responded to with increasing difficulty. The overworked sergeant-at-arms spent much of the afternoon sending his deputies through the Capitol to summon unwilling senators to their task. The chamber here an almost deserted appearance. At one time the number of senators on the floor dwindled to seven.

"It is apparent," said Senator Burton, who led the filibuster on the river and harbor bill, "that the Senate is in no mood for serious legislation. At this moment there are only sixteen senators on the floor. I do not blame them. They are tired after their continuous labors for the past seventeen months. They cannot seriously consider legislation. I only hope that whatever bills we do pass will be salutary and of benefit to the country rather than disastrous."

FISH DEALERS ARE SWAMPED

Boston Firms Forced to Give Away Some Kinds to Get Rid of It

Tons upon tons of fish were thrown upon the market in Boston yesterday only awaiting a demand from purchasers. The prices of fish of all varieties have gradually sunk to the lowest known to marketmen both wholesale and retail.

Businessmen have at last ceased their cry for low meat prices and have been indulging in the sea delicacies which are piled high in every fish market. Although the demand has been extra large during the past few weeks the heavy fares that have been dumped upon the new fish pier in South Boston have exceeded the demand by tons. Half-ton salmon mackerel butter fish and groundfish are among the kinds that can almost be bought for a "song."

Retail buyers can now go into any fish market in Boston ask for mackerel for example bakers and purchase six large fish for 25 cents a piece the lowest that Bostonians have known in the local fish industry since it was originated.

Fish has piled so high in Boston that hundreds of barrels have been sold and shipped to European countries a new industry for Boston fish dealers.

The only exception to the fish low price has been swordfish which have been hauled into the pier in small numbers. However the price of the fish is not exceedingly high being quoted at 17 to 20 cents a pound. On the other hand the dealers at the new fish pier are giving away butterfish as the quantity is the largest ever seen on the pier.

"Eat fish" is the slogan that is coming from all sides to reduce the high cost of living and the fish dealers say that the prices will remain low for several weeks to come.

PETITION FOR WARSHIPS

Merchants of Havana Request That American Vessels Stop There and Give Sailors Liberty Ashore

Havana, July 21.—The merchants of Havana have addressed a petition to the American Legation requesting that arrangements be made with the American Government to allow American warships on the way to Mexico to stop at Havana.

The request is believed to be due to the amount of money spent by American sailors who land here.

SHAMROCK LEAVES FALMOUTH

Falmouth, Eng., July 21.—Shamrock IV conveyed by the steam yacht Erin and under her own sail left here today for the United States. It is expected that the next port of call of the challenger for the American cup will be the Azores. She was forced to put into this harbor yesterday on account of heavy weather having had a rough passage from Plymouth. She behaved splendidly in the easterly gale and increased Sir Thomas's confidence that she would lift the cup.

The mayor of Falmouth and the members of the corporation went aboard the Erin and wished Sir Thomas good luck in his voyage across the ocean and in his quest for the cup. Sir Thomas has received a letter from President Wilson expressing regret that he the President could not accept the invitation to board the Shamrock during the races and assuring him that America would warmly welcome him in again.

FORESTRY CONFERENCE AT THE MOUNTAINS

Gorham N. H., July 21.—The sixth annual forestry conference in the White Mountains opened here today under the auspices of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests with the cooperation of the State Forestry Commission. Following is the programme for the day:

10:00 a. m.—Conference on Taxation of Forests. "The Forest Taxation Law of 1914 in Massachusetts," Professor Charles J. Lock, Harvard University. "The New Taxation Law in Connecticut," Professor H. H. Chapman of the Yale Forest School. "The New Taxation Law in Vermont," Austin P. Hovey, State Forester of Vermont. "The New Taxation Law in Pennsylvania," probably by Dr. Henry S. Drinker, president of the American Forestry Association. Discussion led by Dr. H. H. Chapman, president of the Society of American Foresters.

3:00 p. m.—Conference of foresters and timberland owners. W. R. Brown, president of the State Forestry Commission, will preside. "Closer Utilization," Professor B. C. Bryant of the Yale Forest School. "Forest Fires and the Railways," and Other Notes, with special reference to Canada, Clyde Leavitt, chief forest inspector of the Canadian Railway Commission.

8:00 p. m.—General Conference. Hon. F. W. Hallows will preside. Greetings from the several states. "Progress in New Hampshire State Forestry," W. R. Brown. "Forestry at the State College," and Cooperation with other Agencies, Dr. E. T. Sargent, president, New Hampshire State College. "A Section of Timber for New England," James P. Taylor, secretary of the Greater Vermont Association.

Johnson follows the presentation of each subject.

Professor Hallows discussing the new taxation law in Massachusetts said:

"The law this year passed by the Massachusetts Legislature provides a special system of taxation for lands registered under its provisions. Such registration has to be made with the city or town clerk after the assessors have found that the land is suitable for forestry purposes. There are to be two classes: (1) Wood lot, or land having merchantable timber upon it, and (2) plantation, without such timber. Land so registered is to be subject, in lieu of all other taxes, to (1) a forest tax of one-half of the value of the land, excluding timber at the rate of taxation, and (2) a forest privilege tax to be levied upon the standing timber in the year prior to the registration of the land. Whenever timber is cut, the commutation tax will cease, and such land will thereafter be subject only to the forest land tax, and the forest product tax. The object of the forest commutation tax is to preserve the income of heavily forested towns until such time as the community has become adjusted to the new system of taxation."

"Owners of registered lands will be required to plant any portions of such lands not already forested to cut timber in such way as to encourage natural production, or failing this, to replant and make suitable disposition of slash. In this respect they will be under the oversight of the state forester. Land may be withdrawn from registration under suitable conditions."

"Provision is made under the law for consolidating small woodlots into forests and unlimited corporations are authorized to engage in forestry under the provisions of the act. It is believed that the law offers capital an opportunity to engage in forestry under reasonably attractive terms in Massachusetts."

GRAND LODGE WILL MEET HERE

Big Gathering of New Hampshire Pythians and Pythian Sisters Expected in October

The grand lodge Knights of Pythias of New Hampshire will hold its annual session in this city on the first Tuesday in October. This is the first time in quite a number of years that the session has been held in this city and it is expected that there will be an unusually large representation as there are several matters of importance to come before the session.

On the previous evening it is the intention of the members of Hamon lodge to tender a reception to the grand officers and delegates to the Grand Lodge in Freeman's hall and the reception will be followed by a dance.

At the same time the annual session of the Pythian Sisters will be held and it is expected that there will be the usual representation.

The two conventions will bring a large number of people to our city and our citizens should try to impress upon them that Portsmouth is the ideal New Hampshire city for holding gatherings of this nature.

There is a possibility that the first session, U. R. K. P., may hold a field day following the grand lodge session.

SMITHS AND HELPERS.

Two smiths and two smith's helpers were called today by the hull division.

Start on Thursday

The marine detachment, consisting of four corporals and fifteen privates ordered to San Domingo in command of Capt. Rhen, will leave the yard on Thursday for Hampton Roads.

Coming from the Florida

Lieut. Leland Jordan, junior grade, has been detached from the Florida and ordered to this yard for duty.

Off to the Mountains

Surgeon B. L. Wright of the yard medical force has been granted a short furlough which he will pass in the mountains.

He Has the Right Dope.

Capt. John C. Leonard, formerly at the local yard, and who was in command of the U. S. S. Virginia when Vera Cruz was taken, on route from that port to his home in Brooklyn, declared that "baseball will uplift Mexico and supplant brutal bull fighting."
Here is a chance for some of the Sunset League's and umpires out of a job.

THE HERALD HEARS

That Daniel W. Sanborn, former general superintendent of the Boston and Maine, was a recent visitor to this city.

That he met several of the old timers during his stay.

That time has made but little change in the general appearance of the ex-official who looked after the company's interest when in the best days of the Boston and Maine system.

That a trunk loaded with burlap and other material has been on the platform of the Greenland depot for three months.

That it has got to be an eyesore
to the traveling public.

That its presence there is said to be the result of an argument between the owner and the railroad.

That the company refuses to transfer it unless it is loaded and the owner refuses to lock it.

That Dover is planning for Old Home Week.

That the political fight for senator in the 24th district will be a warm one.

That John G. Parsons, democrat, who represented the district in the last session of the legislature, will run again.

That a tramp badly on his uppers called at a house on Ball's court and asked for a pair of old shoes.

That a boy who answered his call at the door asked what kind he wanted.

That the hobo replied that he was not particular as long as the shoes would go on his feet.

That the kid went from the cellar to the attic in hunt for some old footwear.

That the tramp was in hopes that he might hit a new pair of brogans.

That he failed when the kid returned to the door with a pair of baby's kicks in his hand.

That the wind during the shower
on Tuesday tore up trees by the roots in Greenland.

That it also wrecked much property
along the water front at Rollins Farm.

That the Adrich Memorial Home is having a big run of visitors this season.

That Dan Cupid will soon break into the ranks of the force of wireless men at the navy yard.

That the residents of New Castle are still living in homes of free toll and city water.

That night target practice will be held again at Fort Stark later in the season.

That the Board of Trade will hear some good speakers at the Wentworth tonight.

That the Picketbook club is saving up spare nickels for the Saturday and Sunday trip to Hampton Beach.

That there is evidence of a split in the club since some of the boys quit Hampton for the Farragut.

That the Central Labor Union is planning a great entertainment for the delegates to the State Federation in this city later.

PROGRESSIVES MEET.

Considering the Adviseability of Putting a County Ticket
in the Field.

A meeting of the Progressives of Rockingham County is being held at U. V. U. hall today to take steps to place a county ticket in the field for the coming election. The attendance was not very large and an adjournment was taken until 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

A TROLLEY RIDE FOR THE CHOIR

The choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception and their friends, will enjoy a trolley ride to Hampton Beach tonight, leaving Market square at 8 o'clock and return on the last car from the seashore.

POLICE COURT.

William J. McAdoo, aged 19, said to be the son of Secretary McAdoo, and Jesse Hoyt were before Judge Torrey in the district court on Tuesday afternoon. McAdoo was charged with interfering with an officer and paid a fine of $25 and costs. Hoyt was charged with having no light on his automobile on High street. He was fined $5 and costs $5.

In the police court today before Judge Harry K. Torrey, Walter Alcott, charged by Fish and Game Warden Chauncey B. Hoyt with having short lobsters in his possession was fined $8 without costs. At a session held this afternoon three business men were arraigned charged with the violation of the child labor law.
